Nobody Told Me There'd Be Days Like These: Stress, Pressure, and Ethical Decision-Making in the Practice of Law

Michael Kahn, ReelTime CLE
CLE credits: 3 Ethics

7:30 Registration

8:30 Nobody Told Me There'd Be Days Like These: Stress, Pressure, and Ethical Decision-Making in the Practice of Law

Most serious legal malpractice claims and state bar disciplinary actions are brought for clear breaches of obvious, well-defined ethical obligations. Using a mix of film clips and roundtable discussions this engaging and interactive program provides a fresh and practical perspective on the fundamental question "why do good lawyers go bad?" The program covers the intersection of Oregon's legal ethics rules, ethical decision-making, and the numerous sources of stress encountered by attorneys in day-to-day practice.

1:30 The Accidental Lawyer: Terms of Engagement

"You're a lawyer, right?" Seemingly innocuous words, but when said at a cocktail party, family gathering, or even in a hallway or elevator at the courthouse, they pose a genuine challenge. With the aid of three original film vignettes and roundtable discussions, this interactive workshop is designed to help lawyers be more alert to the vulnerabilities they may face in various non-office settings, to equip them with best practices under Oregon's legal ethics rules, and set clear boundaries with the person seeking advice.

Here's what other attorneys have said about Nobody Told Me There'd Be Days Like These and The Accidental Lawyer

"Very real discussion of the effect of stress on one's practice--excellent approach. Enjoyable."

"The format was so incredibly engaging as compared to the standard courses offered for CLE."

"Excellent! Not a simple lecture on 'do this, don't do that,' but discussion of the events and mindset leading up to an ethical conflict."

"Delivered value-added, relevant information... in a collaborative, interactive, engaging manner, prompting introspective thought, that was actually entertaining—definitely not your typical CLE."
