The Oregon Trial Advocacy College is a two-day, hands-on experience for advocates of all skills levels to try an actual case and receive constructive feedback from judges and experienced trial attorneys. Limited enrollment ensures individual attention, while active participation means the ability to develop your own persuasive advocacy techniques and style.

Day 1: An outstanding faculty of some of Oregon's most accomplished advocates will instruct and demonstrate their trial skills, while a panel of judges will share their insight.

Day 2: This is the mock trial phase, complete with witnesses and jurors. A fact pattern, evidence, and an assignment to represent either the plaintiff or the defendant will be provided in advance. Participants are expected to thoroughly review the materials and come to the College prepared to conduct voir dire, make an opening statement, perform direct and cross-examination, and give a closing argument. A highly select group of attorneys and judges will advise and guide you through your mock trial, while providing individual evaluations.

Practice makes perfect—and here is the perfect opportunity to develop new advocacy skills or refine your existing techniques. Register by October 2 and save $45. Registration is limited to 30 participants.

19th Annual Oregon Trial Advocacy College

Participants are expected to thoroughly review the fact pattern and evidence in advance and come to the College prepared to present questions to a jury pool for voir dire, make an opening statement, perform direct and cross-examination of witnesses, and give a closing argument. Party assignments (plaintiff or defendant) and trial notebooks will be sent to registrants beginning October 9.

You must answer a questionnaire at www.osbar.org/cle/otac17 to complete your registration.

“The performance-based section of the program really brought it all home. Reading the written critiques after returning to the office helped me remember my performance and the responses and feedback I received. Very well designed.”

“The program was thoughtful and well presented. Nice balance between listening and doing. Safe environment to make mistakes and get constructive criticism.”

“Great feedback. Made me not afraid of jury trial[s]. The feedback from the judges was valuable. Jury feedback provided great insight.”

“This program is fantastic. It builds confidence, imparts wisdom, hones skills, and gives me the tools necessary in the courtroom.”
