Here are some frequently asked questions about MCLE compliance.

- 1) Do I have to complete access to justice credits? Yes, members in a three year reporting period ending 12/31/2018 are required to complete access to justice credits. If you are a new admittee whose first MCLE reporting period ends 12/31/2018, you must complete a three-credit hour introductory course in access to justice.
- 2) Are the professional responsibility credits (legal ethics, abuse reporting, and access to justice) part of or in addition to the minimum requirement? The professional responsibility credits are included in your minimum requirement. If your three-year reporting period ends 12/31/2018, your minimum requirement is 45 credits INCLUDING 5 legal ethics, 3 access to justice, and 1 abuse reporting. If your first reporting period after reinstatement ends 12/31/2018, your minimum requirement is 15 credits INCLUDING 2 legal ethics. If your first reporting period after admission ends 12/31/2018, your minimum requirement is 15 credits INCLUDING 10 practical skills (4 of which must be Oregon Practice and Procedure), 2 legal ethics (1 of which must be Oregon Ethics), and a three-credit hour introductory access to justice course.
- 3) Can I include programs on my report that have not been accredited in Oregon? No. If a program you attended has not been accredited, you need to apply for accreditation by completing MCLE Form 2 and sending it to our office along with the requested enclosures. The form is on our website at www.osbar.org. Submit this form no more than 30 days after the program date.
- 4) How do I know if a program has been accredited in Oregon? Use our searchable program database available on our website to find out if a program you attended has been accredited. From the OSB home page, click on MCLE, and then click on the Program Database link at the top.
- 5) Can access to justice credits be counted as ethics credits? No. Access to justice credits cannot count as ethics credits and ethics credits cannot count as access to justice credits. You can, however, count extra access to justice and ethics credits as general or practical skills credits.
- 6) Why are some of the activities I completed not posted to my transcript? Attendance information is posted on a regular basis. It is possible that we have not received the attendance information from the program sponsor. If an accredited activity has not been posted to your transcript, you can simply add it (manually) to page two (the itemization page for Category I activities) of your compliance report.
- 7) If I am an active member in a jurisdiction with which Oregon has established MCLE reciprocity (currently Washington, Idaho or Utah), do I have to submit a completed compliance report? You may comply with Oregon's MCLE requirements by completing the abuse reporting credit and submitting a current Comity Certificate of MCLE Compliance from that jurisdiction. Attach the certificate to page one of your Oregon MCLE Compliance Report. On page two of the report, indicate when and how you completed the elder abuse reporting credit. Then sign the report and return it to our office by the deadline.
- 8) If I am an out-of-state member but not in Washington, Idaho, or Utah, do I have to submit a completed compliance report? Yes. You must meet the Oregon MCLE requirements. If the activities you attended have not been accredited in Oregon, you must provide information about them from which it can be determined whether the programs substantially meet Oregon's MCLE standards and from which we can calculate the number of 60-minute credits for which the program qualifies. This can include certificates of attendance, brochures describing the program content and schedules, and evidence of accreditation in the jurisdiction in which you practice.
