There are some skills you can't master from watching a YouTube video. Representing a spouse during a divorce is one of them.

Competently representing your client in a divorce is a necessary survival skill for any lawyer new to family law. Using a "how-to" approach, including what critical forms to file and when, highly experienced family law lawyers Paul Saucy and Ruth Pekelder will guide you step-by-step through the divorce process and provide a wealth of tools to help build your practice. With a focus on forms you can download and practice tips that can be used right away, this seminar is a short-term investment of time that will reap long-term benefits for your legal career.
