This two-day webcast seminar will delve into disability law topics essential to your practice. Learn about the historical landscape of federal civil rights law for people with disabilities, including their history, what they do, and how they overlap. Hear about the definitions of emotional support and service animals and the laws, regulations, and regulatory guidance that define them. Explore ethics topics including ethics considerations for clients with diminished capacity and the intersection of “effective communication” under the ADA and “reasonable communication” under legal ethics rules.
