By its very nature a litigation practice is filled with differing impressions, beliefs, and perspectives. Explore how an individual's beliefs, perspectives, and impressions are influenced and shaped by life experience and external forces such as conventional and social media. The science of how those views are developed will be explored, along with tips and strategies for representing unsympathetic clients. A panel of federal and state judges will discuss differences in the courtroom and how to level the playing field. Another panel will examine raising the issue of implicit bias with juries. On a more conversational level, Oregon Supreme Court Chief Justice Martha Walters will share her thoughts during an interview with OSB member Yoona Park.

The 23rd Annual Owen M. Panner Professionalism Award will be presented to Clarence Belnavis, Fisher & Phillips LLP, Portland.

11:00 New Lawyer Workshop—Limited Attendance

Effective Legal Writing and Editing
Former Oregon Supreme Court Justice Virginia Linder and Kelly Zusman, Appellate Chief for the U.S. Attorney’s Office in Oregon, will share ways to improve your legal writing with organizational ideas, alternatives to IRAC, and practice tips you can implement right away. Learn how to prepare to write, and discover ways to improve the quality of your drafts through incisive editing. This workshop will further the techniques explored in Justice Linder’s 2019 new lawyer legal writing session. If you enjoyed that presentation, register for the 2020 Litigation Institute and this next stage of your legal writing education.
