Thursday, May 6, 2021—Noon–1:00 p.m.

What I Did During the Pandemic: New Developments in Agribusiness Receivership and Insolvency Proceedings (AGL21-1)

In agriculture, the only thing that is “certain” is the “uncertainty.” This program takes a look at agribusiness insolvency cases in today’s challenging environment and examines the use of the Oregon Receivership Code in agribusiness cases.

Jeffrey Misley, Sussman Shank LLP, Portland, OR

Thursday, May 13, 2021—Noon–1:00 p.m.

Update on Federal Water Storage Management in the Klamath Basin and Beyond (AGL21-2)

Recent and ongoing litigation in the Klamath Basin in Oregon may forever change how the federal government manages and releases water stored for irrigation in the State and beyond. Join Paul Simmons as he explains the status and consequences of this litigation, as well as the impacts on federal actions under the Endangered Species Act and state management of water rights held by federal appropriators for the benefit of water users.

Richard Deitchman, Somach Simmons & Dunn, Sacramento, CA

Thursday, May 20, 2021—Noon–1:00 p.m.

Trends and Hot Topics in Forest-Timber Management (AGL21-3)

The Pacific Northwest is home to large tracts of public and private forest lands. This presentation will address some of the differing forest management tools utilized by non-industrial private and public forest managers, emphasizing fuels reductions, commercial timber harvest, and restoration efforts and highlighting recent litigation pertaining to forest management on federal public lands.

Sara Ghafouri, American Forest Resource Council, Portland, OR

Chuck Sarrett, Forestry Consultant, La Grande, OR

Thursday, May 27, 2021—Noon–1:00 p.m.

Ag Law Update (AGL21-4)

Join partner and trial lawyer Anne Foster and Lewis and Clark law student Shelby Long for an update on new and noteworthy cases and recent key legal developments in agriculture. Don’t miss this chance to get caught up on the most recent cases and legislation affecting your ag practice.
