The 2023 NW Bankruptcy Institute's in-person format returns to six breakout sessions (three consumer and three business), in addition to other institute staples—a Ninth Circuit case review and the Judges Panel. Breakout session topics include post-confirmation issues in both consumer and business cases, a student debt update, and a discussion of Subchapter 5. William Rule, Senior Economist in the Judicial Services Office, will open the institute with an economic update, while a legal ethics session featuring situations particular to a bankruptcy practice will conclude the program. The hosted reception on Friday afternoon is an ideal way to reconnect with bankruptcy colleagues and judges.
